What Happened to Health Care? November 8, 2016 Did

It's premature to predict what impact the November 2016 elections will have on the health care landscape in our state and nation. But it is safe to say that the ground on which we stand is shifting and we should all be prepared for change – and a fight.

A Chance to Speak Up on Health Care in CT

We've talked about the work the state's Health Care Cabinet is doing to contain health care costs in the state – now it's your opportunity to speak up.

The Cabinet met Tuesday and decided on a draft of recommendations, which are now open for public comment. The finalized recommendations will be set in December, then sent to the legislature for possible action.

Big Pharma Building Their War Chest to Protect High Profits

As our recent blog explained, the public is increasingly worried about rising prescription drug prices, a concern that is being echoed by national and state-based policy makers.

The pharmaceutical corporations, worried about their stock prices and their profits, are fighting back, preparing to defend their price-gouging ways.
