Repealing the ACA: Millions of Lives on the Line

This is a very real possibility: Congress repeals the Affordable Care Act (ACA) in January and never quite gets around to replacing it.

Many voices at the Health Care Cabinet public hearing

Yesterday was the public hearing for the Health Care Cabinet's draft recommendations for health care cost containment. You can read all the submitted testimony here, and watch the public hearing, recorded by CT-N, here.

Many of those testifying echoed each other, pointing to the post-election uncertainty surrounding health care, especially the Affordable Care Act.

CON Task Force Breaks Open Its Box

I've watched various commissions, task forces and government appointed bodies do their work over three decades now. Rarely have I witnessed such bodies openly embrace mid-course corrections.

On November 21, the Certificate of Need (CON) Task Force decided to reconsider its course of action to-date and step out of its box.
